

ABSTRACT

The invention disclosed involves a method of doing business whereby a user is provided with the capability of conducting transactions in a secure environment such as creating and dispensing information or conducting a purchase and sale transaction within the secure environment.

1. A method of doing business, comprising:
a. providing a user with a secure environment;
b. conducting a transaction within the secure environment;
c. dispensing information within the secure environment;
d. creating information within the secure environment;
e. conducting a purchase and sale transaction within the secure environment.